Swami Abhedananda: A yogi par excellence Compilation

Swami Abhedananda, an illustrious monastic disciple of Sri Ramakrishna and a yogi par excellence, left a lasting legacy in the Ramakrishna Order by disseminating Vedanta through scientific reasoning and interpretation, thereby continuing the work of Swami Vivekananda in the West, and training innumerable sincere spiritual aspirants both in India and in the West.

As part of commemorating the 150th Birth Anniversary of Swami Abhedananda, this book is brought out to popularise and celebrate the greatness of his glorious life among the public, especially the devotees and the well-wishers of the Ramakrishna Movement.

This book is a biographical narrative, with incidents compiled from his autobiography and various other sources, and coherently presented in a lucid style to help the readers get a fairly reasonable pen-picture of his glorious life and contributions. Synthesis of Vedanta Swami Tapasyananda

The Vedanta preached by Sri Ramakrishna has always been an enigma to many. Some hold that he preached the Advaita Vedanta of Sri Shankaracharya. Some others aver that he adapted the Vishishtadvaita Vedanta of Sri Ramanujacharya. Still others assert that he combined the Dvaita, Vishishtadvaita and Advaita.

Revered Swami Tapasyananda Maharaj, who was a scholar-monk of great eminence and one of the former Vice-presidents of the Ramakrishna Order, had dealt with Sri Ramakrishna's synthetic and comprehensive Vedanta in an erudite yet lucid way in his well-acclaimed works. This book incorporates his analysis of the subject culled from his books Sri Ramakrishna Life and Teachings and Bhakti Schools of Vedanta.
